VALUE OF VOLUNTEER HOURS*

Connecting volunteers to opportunities is an important part of our work. In Q3, we began counting volunteer hours from our board members to Hope 4 All to appropriately value their leadership contributions. We also received volunteer support from our new intern, our web designer, and other supporters. Our team engaged in multiple opportunities with other organizations including handing out food boxes with North Texas Food Bank, lending a hand at Hugs Cafe, helping S.T.E.P.S. with Horses with web design, and teaching teen leadership courses with Stars United Global Outreach.

In Q3, our Awareness Wednesday series focused on several Hugs Cafe programs: job coaching, Hugs Fulfilled online store and fulfillment, Hugs Prep kitchen skills training, and the Hugs Greenhouse. We also shared a Q2 review. Social media posts highlighted Hugs Cafe and Greenhouse, North Texas Giving Day, Stars United Global Outreach's Blueprint for Success camp, and various volunteer and development opportunities, and a blog post on the importance of annual audits for nonprofit organizations.

COLLABORATING

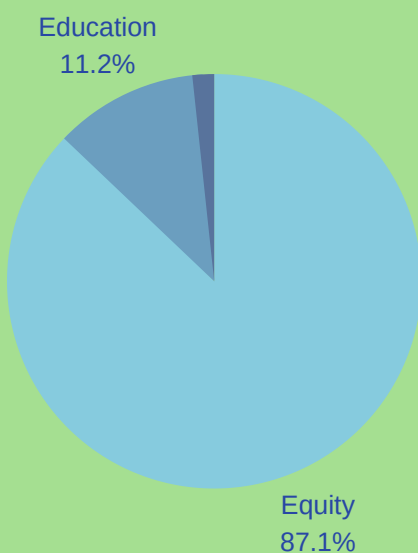

Our most impactful collaboration in Q3 was our spotlight on Hugs Cafe. We worked together to showcase their staff and programs through multiple Awareness Wednesday features. We focused fundraising during the quarter on helping Hugs pay for an annual audit, which opens them up to additional funding opportunities. In addition to our spotlight on Hugs, we began researching drivers education requirements for a collaboration with Grand Prairie aimed at decreasing traffic violations. We look forward to sharing more as this opportunity develops.
